Career paths:
You will be able to work in education as a language assistant, language teacher or college professor; in the tourism industry like travel agent, guide, flight attendant, cultural events coordinator; also for the government like National security agent, immigration officer, UNESCO official, court interpreter, Foreign Service Officer; as well as in communication and business like international relations consultant, foreign exchange trader, publishing specialist, proof-reader, foreign correspondent, international banking officer, or bilingual customer support. Even in the cinema or in the videogames industry as a dubber or a translator.

What can I do after I have completed this course?

Learning a foreign language, like French, will widen your horizons and prepare you for an entire world of opportunities. Having a GCSE or an A level in French will be an obvious advantage when applying for university or for any job.

Link:

https://www.indeed.com/career-advice/finding-a-job/careers-with-french

Subject:
French